

Aircraft Mechanic Oral, Practical, & Written Tests

To become an aircraft mechanic, you must take written, oral, and practical tests; a fee for each test is required. Written exams can be taken at any approved FAA testing Center. National Aviation Academy is an approved testing center and the cost for written exams is $70.00 each.

A Designated Mechanic Examiner (DME) provides the oral and practical test. The oral and practical examination is not part of the Aviation Maintenance Certification Program. Each Applicant must coordinate with a DME and schedule an oral and practical examination. NAA will assist with coordination of a DME. The following is a list of DME's in the area. For the most current list go to the Federal Aviation Administration's (FAA) webpage: <http://av-info.faa.gov/DesigneeSearch.asp>

Please note:

Applicants must be advised that the FAA authorization to test is only valid for testing by a Designated Mechanic Examiner (DME) who exercises privileges within the geographic area served by the FSDO where the authorization is granted. Should the applicant wish to test with a DME in another district, additional FAA approval will be required. The DME must gain permission from their FSDO/international field office. If you are not from this local area (Tampa Bay) then please let us know in advance if you wish to use one of the above DME's.
